

Oak class

Thank you for the photos I've received over the past couple of weeks. I have received some great animal enclosures that you have designed. I hope that you have had a lovely half term. You are all working so hard and I'm very proud of you all.

Mrs Cox.

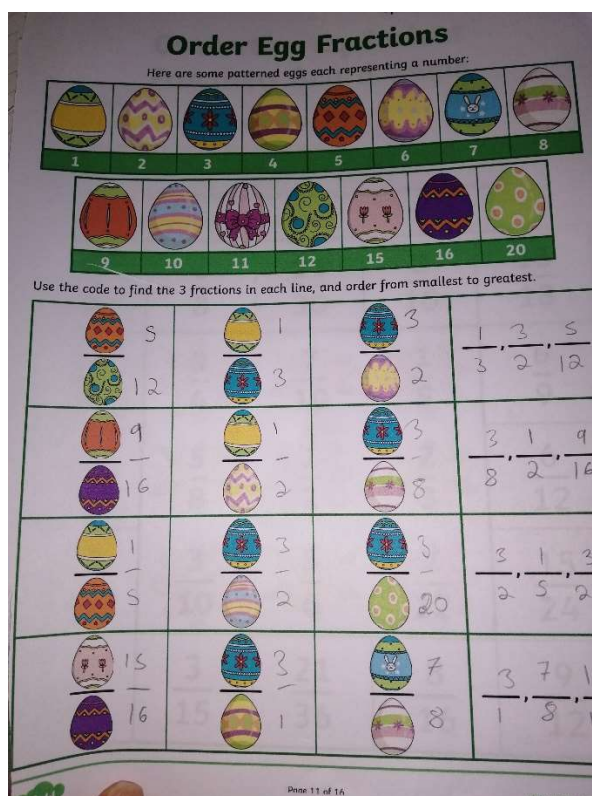

Super work from Alfie along with a beautiful sketch of a rose. Well done Alfie, I can see that your art skills are improving. Not only is he doing his home learning but he is helping his brother too. Building a treasure island looks fun. Well done boys.

Lots of super writing and spelling from Nathan this week. Well done Nathan – keep up the good work.

Well done Bella. Great visual maths to work out fractions and a great sketch of a Viking ship. Bella has also drawn flowers and worked on her spelling. Keep up the good work.

Kirby has designed an enclosure for a cheetah. Great information in the table Kirby outlining what the enclosure includes accompanied by a drawing that shows all of the elements. Kirby also included information about why cheetahs are now endangered animals and how we can help. Great work Kirby.

Well done Sam what a brilliant model of a Viking ship. It has a dragon head, oars and benches. Very detailed and well-made it must have taken you ages.

Mia has designed an enclosure for a giant panda. She has even drawn it to scale with one square on the paper = one square metre. Well done Mia.

When Jack got to the neighbouring farm, crystal clear rain drops fell from coal coloured clouds, hovering in the stone grey sky. Thunder boomed boisterously and golden, electrical flashes frightened Daisy and Jack, making them both want to head home. Meanwhile, Jack's mother made ~~to~~ his his favourite meal - pasta. The delicious aroma filled the room carelessly, making anyone who smelt it drool with ~~delite~~ delight.

Jack looked peered at the old farmhouse, a musty smell coming from the ancient building.

An old man crept out the cello colossal wooden, rotten door and gave the boy an evil smile. "I will give you five magical beans for that lovely cow of yours."

Jack accepted the offer and ran home, clutching the beans tightly in his sweaty hand.

A super animal enclosure for a lion from Lucy as well as the beginning of her Jack and the Beanstalk story which was 4 pages long. Well done Lucy you have been working hard.
